

CALIFORNIA PORTS, STATE & FEDERAL AGENCIES & PROPELLER CLUB FEATURE AT SEA LEVEL DEFENSE CONFERENCE IN OAKLAND ON DECEMBER 3RD

The Ports of San Francisco, Oakland, Redwood City, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Port of Hueneme, San Diego and the Propeller Club of Northern California are collaborating on a “Strategies for Storms, Flooding and Sea Level Defense” conference that will take place on Tuesday, December 3rd at Scott’s Seafood, Jack London Square, Oakland, California.

Speakers from the California ports will be joined by California and Federal agencies to discuss their plans for addressing storms, flooding and rising sea levels.

The link to the conference agenda and speaker bios is here

:https://propellerclubnortherncalifornia.org/storms-flooding-sea-level-defense-conference/

Kate Gordon, Director, Governor’s Office of Planning and Research will be the luncheon speaker.

Speakers from the Netherlands will discuss Dutch climate adaptation practices related to sea level rise and collaborations in the United States. They represent: the Port of Rotterdam, the University of Amsterdam, and companies such as Deltares and Arcadis.

For more information please contact: Stas Margaronis, Propeller Club of Northern California via: stas@rbtus.com